

Personal Statement

There are no deliberate explanations for what emerges from my canvases. My works either speak to you or are merely ornaments on a wall. I create spaces that invite the viewer to enter and explore. The experience will be personal and unique. Whatever is gleaned may be meaningful or mundane, profound or fleeting.

Why one paints is a mystery. There is an inexplicable compulsion to create, to play, arrange, color, apply images across a blank canvas. The willful rearrangement of matter to satisfy the strength and urgency of an emotion fulfills a need so deep, an undertaking so necessary.
